As Facilitator, Host or MC, Andrew captivates, charms and engages to deliver sensational results for his clients. Able to pitch to any brief, Andrew can be formal or high energy and is always warm and authoritative.

As a strategic communicator he gets the absolute best out of every situation.

Spending his formative years as a performer, Andrew learned how people respond in different situations. His ability to communicate and connect with people from all walks of life is now unparalleled.

Over the past 20 years, Andrew has expanded his repertoire to include large-scale event production and direction, along with strategic communications. Andrew's creative approach to audience engagement and event experience is sought after by leading conference organisers and creative agencies.

Andrew also acts as a Business Stagecraft + Screen Director for corporate and government organisations, developing skills and confidence in front of a camera or live audience.

"You really made the evening... The way that you brought the evening together... with our guest speaker Alan Joyce was superb!"

Business Stagecraft + Screen Direction

Business Stagecraft

- Own the Room
- Hold your own
- Deliver with brilliance

Andrew works with organisations, individuals and professional speakers to help them develop repeatable skills and confidence in front of a live audience or camera. Be prepared, confident and on message every time.

Presentation is a learnt skill. For some, presenting comes naturally, for most it is like going to the dentist! Whether you're in a boardroom of 25 or a conference of 500, you need to be able to deliver your message with confidence, authority and flare.

Andrew can provide one on one coaching, small group training and keynote options.

All presentations are tailored to the needs and requirements of each participant.

Topics include:

- Presentation advice and support
- Media training and interview techniques
- The value of rehearsal
- Rehearsing on site
- Presenting to an audience – live, on camera, Skype and social media
- Presenting and MC-ing
- Facilitating a panel
- Interviewing experts and colleagues (including how to interview the boss, the Prime Minister or a celebrity)
- Script writing
- Speaker support
- Timing, tone and nuance
- Voice, posture and gestures
- The art of the ad lib
- PowerPoint and video
- Reading the room

"Andrew Gill has been incredibly influential on my presentation skills and building my confidence to present in public. As a CEO for a not-for-profit organisation, I need to present at conferences, to potential donors at events and boardroom meetings. Andrew has helped me greatly to believe in myself and to build my skills as a presenter."

Rhyll Dorrington
CEO, Western Chances

"We have worked with Andrew for a long time. It's a trusted relationship and he understands our needs and what we want to deliver in a really fun way."
